C. T. McCleery - Market Administrator

JUNE 1966

Markesan Girl Wins Alice Title

Jo Ann Cupery, 22, a doctor's daughter from Markesan Saturday night, June 18, was crowned Wisconsin's 19th Alice in Dairyland.

The new queen, a brunet with a winsome smile, short hair and bangs was crowned before an enthusiastic audience at the Eau Claire State university field house. She wore a formal gown with a pink skirt and white bodice.

The coronation climaxed a talent search that started several months ago.

Miss Cupery is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Dowe Cupery. She is a senior in nursing at St. Olaf college, Northfield, Minn. Her father is a physician and surgeon.

She succeeds Miss Kathy Kenas, Rosendale.

ENLARGED MILWAUKEE POOL FOR MAY 1966

Federal Order No. 30, which formerly regulated milk in the Chicago, Illinois marketing area, was terminated April 30, 1966. With this termination about 37 of the plants previously covered by the Chicago order became regulated under Milwaukee, Wisconsin Order No. 39, either as distributing plants which made route deliveries into the Milwaukee marketing area or as supply plants which supplied milk products to such distributing plants.

In order to retain comparability of statistical information for the previous month and prior year, data pertaining to handlers formerly under regulation by the Milwaukee order will continue to be reported in the several tables of the Wisconsin Federal Milk Order Bulletin, as

MARKETING ORDER SERVES DAIRY FARMERS

By A. T. Radigan

What are some of the expenses of providing Special Marketing Services?

Most market administrators maintain their own laboratories to make the butterfat check-tests; some pay for having the work done elsewhere by reliable testing agencies.

In connection with milk weight tests, since producers are paid on the basis of dipstick measurements of milk in bulk tanks at the farm, some market administrators now check the calibrations of farm bulk tanks. Years ago when milk was shipped mostly by can, the market administrator would check the scales used for handlers' pay tests. But now, with the industry turning so largely to the use of farm bulk tanks, the accuracy of farm bulk tank calibrations is an important consideration in making sure that fair prices are paid to producers.

When market administrators find dipstick calibrations which do not accurately determine the weight of milk in the bulk tank, steps are taken to correct this.

The special fund set up by the administrator also covers the expense of an additional marketing service providing marketwide information on supplies, sales, and prices of milk to farmers who otherwise would not have it. Most market administrators issue a monthly bulletin which is widely used by those who must make milk marketing decisions. While this bulletin is an extremely valuable aid to producers in understanding the market, it is less easy to pinpoint in dollars-and-cents benefits than to determine the more tangible benefits derived from checking milk weights and butterfat tests.

Important as these marketing services are to producers, they also benefit milk dealers, who can be sure that they and their competitors are paying dairy farmers on the same basis — the impartial check-tests by the market administrator.

Federal milk marketing orders, initiated and voted in by dairy farmers set minimum prices to be paid by dealers to the dairy farmers from whom they buy their milk. Prices consumers pay, however, are not regulated. The orders are now operating in 74 major population centers, where more than two-thirds of the milk for fluid use is delivered to dealers for sale to 111 million of our Nation's consuming public.

* * *

* Subject to location differentials where applicable. In the case of members of approved cooperatives, these prices are subject to the deductions authorized by the associations. The prices listed do not include any premium payments which may be paid by handlers and which may bring actual payments in excess of the minimum requirements.

MARKESAN GIRL WINS ALICE TITLE

For the first time in several years, the program drew the state's top office holder – Gov. Knowles had a front row seat.

Miss Cupery's selection was announced by Donald McDowell, state director of agriculture.

The Saturday night ceremony was preceded by an afternoon parade watched by 10,000 persons and led by last year's Alice.
